FLIGHT ENDS NIGHT CLUB PRANK

John Coolidge, son of the President, and Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of the Governor of Connecticut, caused a stir when they appeared at an exclusive Hartford night club. To escape eyes of the curious, they fled the place and raced away in a big car driven by John himself. The latter says his Secret Service guard knew he was at the club.

HENRY FORD BANDAGER, AT WORK

Detroit, April 4 (I.N.S.)—Although tightly bound in a face-work of surgical bandages, Henry Ford went to work today in the bedroom of his million-dollar home at Dearborn.

The motor genius called for a bundle of bandages, a half-dozen pencils and whittled away the hours of his temporary imprisonment working upon details of the new Ford car which will go upon the market soon.

The auto king told his physicians that he would not accept the invalid's role which they sought to impose upon him for the next two weeks with his convalescence from injuries sustained a week ago last night when his car was knocked off the boulevard near his estate by a careless or plotting motorist.

The physician told his medical advisers he intended being back at his factory within a week.

The motor car was particularly annoyed by the surgical splints attached to his back and chest, where it was first thought he might have suffered a cracked lung in the accident. The splints forced Ford to lie flat on his back, and over the week-end, it was understood, the physicians removed them at his insistence.

The physician sought to place Ford in a plaster cast, but the motor king was reported as objecting even to this restriction of movement. Who won the argument was not known, although the auto king did submit to considerable bandaging.

The End of the Road of Crime

McLAUGHLIN GOES DOWN THE HIGHWAY TO THE "TOMB OF THE LIVING DEAD" Peter J. McLaughlin, shackled in Court Officer F. G. Taylor, is shown being led through the crowds on his way to Charlestown Prison to serve the remainder of his life behind steel and stone barriers—a sentence number as the years drag by. Study the picture, you here, both young and old, who are contemplating a "criminal career." Is it worth the price? Count the aching hours left by the side of the highway of crime, the void that remains after you have passed on within its gates that will never open. Count the agonies, the shame, the agony of eternity there is a case. IS CRIME WORTH THAT PRICE TO YOU?

PICTURE THAT MOVED DR. A. Z. CONRAD

The above picture was printed in the Boston Evening American on April 1 and on beholding it the Rev. Dr. A. Z. Conrad, pastor of Park street church, was so impressed by the pictorial sermon that he wrote a letter to the editor of this newspaper which is reproduced herewith. When a newspaper fights and strives to attain an end, to do some good, praise such as Dr. Conrad's is encouraging. If this newspaper, by the publication of news and pictures showing the judgment which must invariably be meted out to evil doers, is instrumental in saving one youth from the end which has befallen the "carnal slayers," then it has been repaid for its effort.

GRATIFYING PRAISE IN WAR ON CRIME

The letter above is headed: "A. Z. Conrad, Pastor's study, Park Street Church, Boston, Massachusetts." It reads as follows: "To Editor of Boston American: More eloquent than books, sermons or lectures is the picture of McLaughlin on his way to serve a life sentence. Here is a warning the most unlettered can read and the most highly educated can profit by—'The Way of the Transgressor is Hard'—(signed) A. Z. Conrad." The picture to which the reverend doctor of divinity refers is reproduced together with the letter and was printed in the Boston Evening American on April 1, shortly after Peter McLaughlin was sentenced.

CO-ED AND LAW STUDENT FREE 'PICKPOCKET'

A fair co-ed and a Harvard law student today saved Joseph Moore, who lives in a Hemenway rooming house, was accused of stealing the pocketbook of A. Cohen of Hanover street.

Cohen told the police a man stole his pocketbook at the North Station last Tuesday morning at 8:30. The pickpocket, when Cohen tried to hold him, shoved his victim off an elevated train just as the doors were closing.

Cohen, in municipal court today, was sure the student was the pickpocket. At this juncture the co-ed and the Harvard student entered the case.

Robert Lamont, the Harvard student, testified that he rooms with Moore and has roomed with him for some years. Last Tuesday morning, when he left the room at 8:15, Moore was still in bed. Having been up late the night before, he was still drowsing when he returned from his classes at noon.

Miss Carol Sawyer, the student who studies music at a Boston conservatory, testified that her sister runs the rooming house where Moore and the Harvard student live. It is her duty to assist her sister in making up the beds, and last Tuesday morning she was unable to make up the bed in Moore's room because he was still in bed.

Moore was discharged.

KILLED PIPERS MEET VOYAGERS AT DOCK AND BONNIE LASSIES' FEET WON'T BEHAVE When three killed bagpipers boarded the Anchor Line Cameronian when she docked in East Boston today, some of the bonnie lassies coming to America in quest of husbands, and bubbling over with the gay spirit of Scotch airs.

The Red Signal

Kidnaped

By Homer Banks

A NEW MYSTERY—Roger faced Helen. "Kidnaped! Are you mad?" he cried. Helen unfolded Rosalind's farewell note and handed it to the young attorney. He scanned it hurriedly. "But," he said, perplexed, "such things don't happen in this day and age." "But," corrected Helen with a bitter, inscrutable smile, "they do!" Roger turned on her fiercely. "Tell me—quick! Is it a man?"

AN ASTOUNDING DISCLOSURE—Helen bowed in assent. Roger shook her by the shoulders. "You have no right," he exclaimed, "to keep anything from me that concerns the girl I love. If Rosalind is in danger I'll wreck heaven and earth to find her." "Then," counseled Helen, "find Samuel Mantou!"

ROGER INVESTIGATES—Roger was astonished. The name of the celebrated lawyer who had invited him to become a member of his firm broke like a bomb. He heard Helen speaking. "Call Mantou's office," Roger called. "Mr. Mantou has left the city."

A PRIMITIVE IMPULSE—Roger ran for the door. "I'm going to get to the bottom of this," he called back. At Mantou's office he confronted Mantou's secretary. No, Mr. Mantou was out of town. No, Miss Dwight was not in either. They were away on—er, a business trip. The sleek young man grinned and winked obediently. Roger leaped at his throat. "You snake!" he cried, "tell me where they are or I'll wring it out of you!" (Continued Tomorrow.)

LASSIES DANCE TO PIPES' GAY AIRS ON SHIP

The chubby arms of 16-year-old Betty Downie, Scotch lassie of Glasgow, today reached out toward America and her Daddy—the Daddy she had never seen—as the Anchor Line steamship Cameronian docked at Cunard pier, East Boston.

Traveling with her mother Mrs. Elizabeth Downie, and her aunt Nan Mulvaney, the girl proved the bonnie lassie as couples danced to the native tunes. The pipers were George Smith, Jack Carson and Archie MacDonald, midshipmen in Boston bands.

Many of the lassies abroad, visiting this country for the first time, readily made known their fondness for American husbands, including Miss Mulvaney, sister of little Betty's mother, and the Misses Peggy Lynch and Jean Kamp of Pittsburgh.

Among the passengers observing were Mrs. and Mrs. Frank DeWitt, Arthur Leverette of the Museum of Comparative Zoology at Boston, Mrs. John Nelson and George Mier.

IF PLAY IS BAD OIL MAN GIVES MONEY BACK

New York, April 4 (A.P.)—A novelty in theatrical circles has been introduced on Broadway where the management of the play "The Leader" has announced it will refund the admission price to any unsatisfied patron.

The play, which deals with reincarnation, is being sponsored by E. B. Davis, a wealthy oil man, who is reported to have lost heavily during the play's engagement, which began last October. He is keeping the production on the boards because of his belief in its theme.

BETTER HOMES LIGHTEN DRUGGERY

Wages and means of lightening the drugger of houses will be a cardinal point stressed in public exhibitions during Better Homes Week, May 2 to 5, which President Coolidge has officially endorsed by agreeing to act as head of the national advisory committee.

Score of Greater Boston organizations—business, professional, social, religious and educational—will join in the club demonstrations which will be entirely non-commercial and for the sole purpose of instructing the public without cost.

Boston's main exhibit will be at Exhibition Hall in the Rogers Building, Boylston street, with a model apartment in the South End as a supplementary exhibit. There will be numerous meetings with speakers of national reputation every afternoon and evening in the Rogers Building.

PLAN TWO PLATS

Two plays will be given, one under the direction of Mrs. James J. Storrow, and the other, for children, by the League of Women Voters.

In general charge of the Boston program is the Women's Municipal League, with Mrs. Eva Whiting as president, general chairman, as appointed by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, national director.

Architects will demonstrate well-planned homes, landscape architects will show the advantages of harmonious surroundings, Camp Fire girls will give a demonstration of home furnishing, and there will be exhibits of health safeguards, of student housing and of the place of music, art and books in the home.

THOSE ON COMMITTEE

The general committee, headed by Mrs. White as chairman, includes: Andrew J. Peters, Mrs. Frederick T. Lord, Joseph Lee, Mrs. William H. Harty, Mrs. Robert Treat Paine, Jr., president of the Women's Municipal League; Mrs. James J. Storrow, assistant; Miss Mary Lee, Mrs. Jennie L. Barrow, school committee; Mrs. T. O. POLICE TRAIL MAN SHOT IN RUM WAR

Boston is threatened with a gang war in the North End.

The information elicited from the reluctant witness of the hundreds who saw the shooting started on Hanover street last Friday night, was that the man who was shot was a police officer.

As soon as Inspector Joe Chavarras, who knew every nook and corner of the North End, was told that one was known to have been hit he asked the name. When told it was Joe Paine he shook his head gravely. "That means war," he said.

For the Paine family has been at war with Boston Italian for nearly five years. One Paine was the right-hand man of Richard House, Whitehouse, the famous "Candy King" and the Paine family still feels the electric chair.

Another Paine is serving a term in Massachusetts for assault.

The war broke back to the shooting of one Italian at Prison Point, Charlestown. This man, who engaged in wholly respectable business, it would not be fair to name, but he resented thirteen bullets in his body, and how he escaped death is a matter in the hands of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Then came the practical elimination of the whole Marangi family. Followed the shooting down in a Quinby roadway of Johnny Finn, the last member of the Marangi family, shot down on Commonwealth avenue.

B. & M. CLAIMS TRUCKS SPEED CARGO TRANSFER

The claim that transfer of cargoes from the Boston & Maine terminal to container vessels is faster and more advantageous for shippers by truck than by harbor frigates, was asserted today by Vice-President Gerrit Post of the Boston & Maine Railroad.

This question is at issue before the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington. The Merchants & Miners Transportation Company having protested the railroad's introduction of transfer by truck. According to the railroad officers, there is no reason for any change in the through rates or for the company's claim that use of trucks causes delay.

DEMOUSERS RELIGIOUS ATTACK ON GOV. SMITH

Birmingham, April 4 (A.P.)—Denouncing "breeders of hate" who are blaming the Catholic church for the religious strife in Mexico and who are attacking Al Smith's religion as a menace politically, Rev. George H. L. O'Connor, chaplain in the Mexican and World Wars, branded as ridiculous the question put to the New York Governor by Charles G. Marshall.

Taking up Marshall's article in which Smith was called upon to state whether he would feel compelled to put his allegiance to the Catholic church above his fidelity to the United States if he were elected president, Father O'Connor asked why "they don't ask anybody else to stand and take an oath in such a manner."

"They didn't question our loyalty when you young men were shipped to their lifeblood in the defense of the flag. Why question it now?"

SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' CLUB TO OWN THEIR HOME

A "burn the mortgage" campaign for the Soldiers and Sailors' Club at No. 1 Fayette street, will be launched with a luncheon at the Hotel Statler on April 11. Colonel William J. Donovan, former commander of the Fighting 688th Central Postal Directory, will be the speaker at the luncheon. The drive will be to secure the building of all debt.

Mrs. Gerald A. Brewster of No. 121 Commonwealth avenue is chairman of the campaign committee. Tickets for the opening luncheon may be secured from her.

Stage Villain Starts Boy on Drug Path

A stage villain played the part of a real villain in the life of William J. O'Rourke, unfortunate Cambridge veteran of the World War, who is today under indictment in Federal Court for possession of narcotics.

An actor gave me my first shot of dope. It was fourteen years ago when I was nineteen years old. He shaped one of those heavy nargars, the part of a villain—and he proved to be a villain as far as I was concerned," said O'Rourke, who is lodged in East Cambridge jail while awaiting trial.

"It happened this way. I was in a medical clinic and I noticed that this actor continually sniffed powder. I asked him why he did it and he told me that he was subject to severe headaches and that the powder was the only relief he could find.

"A few days later I had a bad headache and I asked him to give me some of the powder. He did. I felt better right away. It gave me a glow of joy. You know I made you feel better for a few hours and then you want more."

TURNUED TO MORPHINE

"Before he left town he introduced me to a fellow who peddled the stuff and when the peddler ran out of it he turned to morphine. I've been using it ever since with the exception of a few days when I attempted to break myself of the habit."

O'Rourke was arrested as the "big fish" in the morphine case at the outbreak of the World War. He said, "I joined General Leggett's outfit and I was sent to Philadelphia. I figured that I wanted to do my bit and I knew that I was overwise. I could break myself of the habit."

The sentence I was given during the six days I've been in jail has awakened me. For six days and six nights I haven't eaten a thing but two spoonfuls of ice cream. Would to God that I never heard of dope!"

Kindness Cost $342

Springfield, April 4 (A.P.)—Playing the role of the good Samaritan, cost Joseph Ostrowski, of Agawam, $342 today. A "middy" to whom he was giving a lift, pocketed $342 in his life and relieved him of his roll.

WOOL GIRL WITH GUN; HELD FOR SANITY TEST

One of the several wrong ways to win a girl is with a gun, especially if a Romeo happens to be an alien, and Anna Paschke of West Third street, South Boston, discovered this today when his romance went glimmering.

Instead of becoming a happy bridegroom Paschke is to stand a reputation of his past status as an inmate of a State hospital.

In South Boston court Judge Day, after finding Paschke guilty of threatening assault and battery against 17-year-old Anna Rudenberg and her mother and father, in whose home Paschke had lodged since last July, sent the prisoner to Charles River Jail for ten days, pending examination as to his sanity.

A charge of violating the alien law in carrying a gun was continued until April 12 for disposition.

According to testimony, the girl was confined by Paschke in the kitchen. He is alleged to have chided her for staying out and getting with other men.

She fled to her mother and they both fled to the room where her father was sleeping. Paschke is alleged to have followed with a down revolver and to have threatened all with death.

Bergant McElverry ran to the house and disarmed the Romeo.

SEEK TO INDICT PARENTS FOR "BRANDING" CHILD

New York, April 4 (A.P.)—An indictment charging cruelty to their 5-year-old adopted daughter, Robert, will be sought through District Attorney Nathan at once against Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Pratt of Des Moines, Ia., according to Ernest K. Conter of the Children's Society. In Children's Court today the case was postponed until April 12. Under a complaint Saturday the girl was removed from the Pratt Hotel. Numerous burns and bruises were said to have been found upon her body and the child is said to have told investigators they were inflicted by her mother.

COUNSEL WILL COMMAND FORD ATTEND TRIAL

Detroit, April 4 (A.P.)—William Henry Gallagher, chief of counsel for Aaron Sapro, in the latter's million-dollar libel suit against Henry Ford, today telegraphed his intention to demand the presence of Mr. Ford as the next witness after cross-examination of his client.

Whether he would demand medical examination of Mr. Ford under order of the court would depend upon the report the defense counsel made when the point for Mr. Ford's appearance as a witness was reached. It was first said that Mr. Ford's medical advisers would not object to an examination if their patient is unable to attend court when called.

Sapro's brother, Milton, came from California today and added a new note of interest to the trial. Milton came to bring records of Aaron's income demanded by Ford counsel but immediately was given permission to appear as a member of his brother's counsel and will stay on in this capacity.

The protracted drama played to vacant seats today, about fifty-five spectators appearing in the eighty capacity area.

There was election day in Detroit and some of the court happenings may have thought there would be no session, since the State Courts do not hold open court on election day.

At the opening of court, Sapro, the plaintiff, climbed back into the familiar witness chair, but he was not immediately plied with questions as on five days past.

Instead, Ben James A. Reed of Missouri, chief of the defense, launched into the reading of a type-written copy of a long letter written by Sapro before the American Court Growers Exchange at Montevideo, Ala., September 1925.

It outlined the organization and work of the California Raisin Growers' Association.

Unpaid Jurymen May Strike in Ford Case

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

Detroit, April 4.—An extraordinary legal question was raised in the million-dollar Ford-Sapro libel suit today by the possibility of a strike on the part of Federal Court jurors for the pay from Uncle Sam.

Facing weeks of service without much hope of being paid, there was a possibility that the verdict might be withheld indefinitely by the refusal of the jury to decide whether or not Henry Ford actually libeled Aaron Sapro, the so-called wheat king.

If the jury does hand in a verdict without being paid its fees, the leading idea may be able to urge its decision to higher courts as the constitution prohibits any one serving the government without pay.

The whole question was raised when United States Marshal Frank T. Newton announced that the funds for paying Federal jurors are nearly exhausted, due to the failure of Congress to enact the second deficiency appropriation bill.

A single juror, it was said, could tie up the verdict until all the jurors were paid.

"ARTIFICIAL WAVES" AID DE PINEDO IN HOT-SPOT

San Antonio, Tex., April 4 (A.P.)—A fleet of small boats created artificial waves on Medina Lake west of San Antonio today, when Commander Francisco De Pinedo kept off for Hot Springs, New Mexico.

Aviators explained that the artificial waves below the "warplane pull," a force which liquefies earth and objects that come in contact with it. De Pinedo is expected to reach Hot Springs about 2 p. m.

Mrs. Anna M. Jackson, who is doomed to die in the electric chair at Jacksonville, Fla., for the murder of her husband, a musician.

C. Grover Flint, son of old Hub family, who once offered to sell himself into slavery, offers $25 to keep her from "roasting alive."

HUB & MILLIONS BEHIND ON TAX COLLECTION

The City of Boston had $2,322,925.32 in unpaid taxes on its books on Jan. 1, 1927, according to figures just completed by Henry P. Long, commissioner of corporations and taxation.

Only three of the 355 cities and towns in Massachusetts had all their taxes collected on the first of the year, the survey shows. These honor towns are Gosnold, Hopedale and Milton.

The town of Attleboro showed a clean state for every year since 1784, so do 33 other towns.

The total of uncollected taxes in the 355 cities and towns totaled $2,322,925.32 and the cities of Boston, Worcester, Springfield, Cambridge, Lowell and Fall River carried a substantial part of this total. A great percentage of the total of unpaid taxes is found in the 1928 levy, and since the survey was completed a considerable amount of this tax has been paid into the treasuries of the various cities.

The following figures show the amount of unpaid taxes in the leading cities and towns:

1926	1925	1924	1923	1922	1921	1920	1919	1918	1917	1916	1915	1914	1913	1912	1911	1910	1909	1908	1907	1906	1905	1904	1903	1902	1901	1900	1899	1898	1897	1896	1895	1894	1893	1892	1891	1890	1889	1888	1887	1886	1885	1884	1883	1882	1881	1880	1879	1878	1877	1876	1875	1874	1873	1872	1871	1870	1869	1868	1867	1866	1865	1864	1863	1862	1861	1860	1859	1858	1857	1856	1855	1854	1853	1852	1851	1850	1849	1848	1847	1846	1845	1844	1843	1842	1841	1840	1839	1838	1837	1836	1835	1834	1833	1832	1831	1830	1829	1828	1827	1826	1825	1824	1823	1822	1821	1820	1819	1818	1817	1816	1815	1814	1813	1812	1811	1810	1809	1808	1807	1806	1805	1804	1803	1802	1801	1800	1799	1798	1797	1796	1795	1794	1793	1792	1791	1790	1789	1788	1787	1786	1785	1784	1783	1782	1781	1780	1779	1778	1777	1776	1775	1774	1773	1772	1771	1770	1769	1768	1767	1766	1765	1764	1763	1762	1761	1760	1759	1758	1757	1756	1755	1754	1753	1752	1751	1750	1749	1748	1747	1746	1745	1744	1743	1742	1741	1740	1739	1738	1737	1736	1735	1734	1733	1732	1731	1730	1729	1728	1727	1726	1725	1724	1723	1722	1721	1720	1719	1718	1717	1716	1715	1714	1713	1712	1711	1710	1709	1708	1707	1706	1705	1704	1703	1702	1701	1700	1699	1698	1697	1696	1695	1694	1693	1692	1691	1690	1689	1688	1687	1686	1685	1684	1683	1682	1681	1680	1679	1678	1677	1676	1675	1674	1673	1672	1671	1670	1669	1668	1667	1666	1665	1664	1663	1662	1661	1660	1659	1658	1657	1656	1655	1654	1653	1652	1651	1650	1649	1648	1647	1646	1645	1644	1643	1642	1641	1640	1639	1638	1637	1636	1635	1634	1633	1632	1631	1630	1629	1628	1627	1626	1625	1624	1623	1622	1621	1620	1619	1618	1617	1616	1615	1614	1613	1612	1611	1610	1609	1608	1607	1606	1605	1604	1603	1602	1601	1600	1599	1598	1597	1596	1595	1594	1593	1592	1591	1590	1589	1588	1587	1586	1585	1584	1583	1582	1581	1580	1579	1578	1577	1576	1575	1574	1573	1572	1571	1570	1569	1568	1567	1566	1565	1564	1563	1562	1561	1560	1559	1558	1557	1556	1555	1554	1553	1552	1551	1550	1549	1548	1547	1546	1545	1544	1543	1542	1541	1540	1539	1538	1537	1536	1535	1534	1533	1532	1531	1530	1529	1528	1527	1526	1525	1524	1523	1522	1521	1520	1519	1518	1517	1516	1515	1514	1513	1512	1511	1510	1509	1508	1507	1506	1505	1504	1503	1502	1501	1500	1499	1498	1497	1496	1495	1494	1493	1492	1491	1490	1489	1488	1487	1486	1485	1484	1483	1482	1481	1480	1479	1478	1477	1476	1475	1474	1473	1472	1471	1470	1469	1468	1467	1466	1465	1464	1463	1462	1461	1460	1459	1458	1457	1456	1455	1454	1453	1452	1451	1450	1449	1448	1447	1446	1445	1444	1443	1442	1441	1440	1439	1438	1437	1436	1435	1434	1433	1432	1431	1430	1429	1428	1427	1426	1425	1424	1423	1422	1421	1420	1419	1418	1417	1416	1415	1414	1413	1412	1411	1410	1409	1408	1407	1406	1405	1404	1403	1402	1401	1400	1399	1398	1397	1396	1395	1394	1393	1392	1391	1390	1389	1388	1387	1386	1385	1384	1383	1382	1381	1380	1379	1378	1377	1376	1375	1374	1373	1372	1371	1370	1369	1368	1367	1366	1365	1364	1363	1362	1361	1360	1359	1358	1357	1356	1355	1354	1353	1352	1351	1350	1349	1348	1347	1346	1345	1344	1343	1342	1341	1340	1339	1338	1337	1336	1335	1334	1333	1332	1331	1330	1329	1328	1327	1326	1325	1324	1323	1322	1321	1320	1319	1318	1317	1316	1315	1314	1313	1312	1311	1310	1309	1308	1307	1306	1305	1304	1303	1302	1301	1300	1299	1298	1297	1296	1295	1294	1293	1292	1291	1290	1289	1288	1287	1286	1285	1284	1283	1282	1281	1280	1279	1278	1277	1276	1275	1274	1273	1272	1271	1270	1269	1268	1267	1266	1265	1264	1263	1262	1261	1260	1259	1258	1257	1256	1255	1254	1253	1252	1251	1250	1249	1248	1247	1246	1245	1244	1243	1242	1241	1240	1239	1238	1237	1236	1235	1234	1233	1232	1231	1230	1229	1228	1227	1226	1225	1224	1223	1222	1221	1220	1219	1218	1217	1216	1215	1214	1213	1212	1211	1210	1209	1208	1207	1206	1205	1204	1203	1202	1201	1200	1199	1198	1197	1196	1195	1194	1193	1192	1191	1190	1189	1188	1187	1186	1185	1184	1183	1182	1181	1180	1179	1178	1177	1176	1175	1174	1173	1172	1171	1170	1169	1168	1167	1166	1165	1164	1163	1162	1161	1160	1159	1158	1157	1156	1155	1154	1153	1152	1151	1150	1149	1148	1147	1146	1145	1144	1143	1142	1141	1140	1139	1138	1137	1136	1135	1134	1133	1132	1131	1130	1129	1128	1127	1126	1125	1124	1123	1122	1121	1120	1119	1118	1117	1116	1115	1114	1113	1112	1111	1110	1109	1108	1107	1106	1105	1104	1103	1102	1101	1100	1099	1098	1097	1096	1095	1094	1093	1092	1091	1090	1089	1088	1087	1086	1085	1084	1083	1082	1081	1080	1079	1078	1077	1076	1075	1074	1073	1072	1071	1070	1069	1068	1067	1066	1065	1064	1063	1062	1061	1060	1059	1058	1057	1056	1055	1054	1053	1052	1051	1050	1049	1048	1047	1046	1045	1044	1043	1042	1041	1040	1039	1038	1037	1036	1035	1034	1033	1032	1031	1030	1029	1028	1027	1026	1025	1024	1023	1022	1021	1020	1019	1018	1017	1016	1015	1014	1013	1012	1011	1010	1009	1008	1007	1006	1005	1004	1003	1002	1001	1000	999	998	997	996	995	994	993	992	991	990	989	988	987	986	985	984	983	982	981	980	979	978	977	976	975	974	973	972	971	970	969	968	967	966	965	964	963	962	961	960	959	958	957	956	955	954	953	952	951	950	949	948	947	946	945	944	943	942	941	940	939	938	937	936	935	934	933	932	931	930	929	928	927	926	925	924	923	922	921	920	919	918	917	916	915	914	913	912	911	910	909	9 Martha Lee Talks To Housewives

To Fold or Not to Fold

HAVE you ever watched a neighbor ironing with considerable skill, but ruining the final appearance of her handiwork by needless "folding"?

To fold or not to fold, and if to fold, just now is a really important question. Perhaps these suggestions may be a bit helpful.

Napkins should be folded on the wrong side first, then the corners are folded by placing the seams together. Keep all edges even in the final folding.

Place shirts with the buttoned shirt-bosoms face down, fold shirt to center back, laying the sleeves straightwise and leaving the shirt loose on back.

Tea table covers are more attractive laid in folds with no fringed corners. Unfringed corners are pressed on the wrong side over a bath towel.

There should be no piling of kid gloves. They hang on their straps and garters.

Shoulder straps and yokes of silk lingerie should be folded inside before putting the garment away.

Tablecloths should be folded in either three or four lengthwise folds. If in four, a screen fold, looking something like an enlarged according to use.

Each towel, hand towel and gift towels are folded in three folds lengthwise, ready to hang over the rod in the bathroom.

Two folds for handkerchiefs are a saving of time and are really more attractive than the traditional small fold.

Cane Chair Bottoms Are Easily Cleaned

To clean and restore the elasticity of cane bottoms, turn the chair bottom upwards and with hot water and a pure white soap and sponge wash the cane-work well so that it will be thoroughly moist; let dry in the air and it will be as firm and as new—provided none of the cane were broken in the first place.

Making of Meringue

WHAT is the matter with my meringue? What makes it fall or seem so sticky or tough or covered with what looks like misty perspiration? Is the burden of many songs that find their way into my mail box.

So let's chat a bit on the whys of pie-meringue pie particularly.

A well-made meringue is a bit of daintiness that improves any dessert, but a tough meringue is merely a waste of good material.

If your meringues are failures, it may be for one or all of three reasons. First, you may not beat your egg whites stiff enough; second, you may not add sufficient sugar; third, you may bake your meringue in too hot an oven. Eggs must be fresh and very cold. Separate the whites from the yolks, place the whites in a large bowl and set them in a refrigerator to chill thoroughly.

Beat them to a stiff dry froth so that the bowl can be turned upside down. When this point is reached, you must add the granulated sugar, allowing two tablespoons for each egg white. Add the sugar a tablespoon at a time, beating all the time until the last grain is thoroughly stirred in. By now the meringue will look glossy and creamy and will hold its shape when the egg beater is lifted from it.

Now add one additional tablespoon of granulated sugar for each egg white used and continue beating until the mass is very light. When all the sugar has been added, you will have allowed three tablespoons for each egg white which is the correct proportion.

Flavor to taste, about one-quarter teaspoon of vanilla, to two egg whites being the usual amount. Lemon or almond may be used if preferred. Beat the meringue since more to pile in the flavoring and it is ready to place on the pie or pudding.

And this placing is important, too. A meringue should be put on with a spoon or pastry bag. If using a spoon, drop it by heaping spoonfuls over the surface, giving an uneven enough mountain and valley effect.

Or you can spread the surface first with a thin layer of meringue and then drop it next on by spoonfuls. Scallops made with the back of a fork or spoon are attractive. It must be very uneven so that the high spots will brown deeply.

Now about the baking. If the oven is too hot, the surface will brown quickly before the heat has penetrated the center of the meringue and when it is removed from the oven, it will shrink quickly and become dewy. Baked in a slow oven, the heat penetrates to the center. Cooking it thoroughly will give it a delicate brown tint. A meringue so baked will never shrink and should hold its shape for a week or more.

Three hundred degrees is the proper oven temperature for baking a perfect meringue and it should take fifteen minutes to produce a uniformly golden surface with deeper brown peaks—a light, delicate meringue that will hold its shape without shrinking or becoming dewy or tough. The top will be crisp and the inner portion creamy and delicious. If you don't believe us, try it.

Washing the Dishes

I HAVE you an electric dishwasher in your home? If not, you don't know what you are missing.

To those of us who have wished we could send our dishes away to be washed as we do our laundry, these electric dishwashers are a true answer to the housewife's prayer.

No matter how busy we are with Spring, sewing or housecleaning, these dishes must be done eventually, if not now. Even though we stack them up and try to forget them, the fatal hour will come when they must be done, and then the task is even harder and more disagreeable.

With an electric dishwasher, dishes can be stacked under the glass cover out of sight, if you wish to economize on electricity by doing them only once a day. Then steaming hot water will do them beautifully without human assistance. Some of our electric appliances we may use only once a week, but our electric dishwasher more than justifies itself by its daily use.

And another virtue—the cost of operation is lower and its saving in time higher than that of almost any other household time saver.

The initial cost is more than offset by its low cost of operation for it will run for about a cent a week at the rate of ten cents a kilowatt hour. The economy in labor for washing, scrubbing or rubbing can't, of course, be expressed in figures.

When you buy your machine be sure to have the demonstrator wash dishes for you in your own home, and then enjoy forevermore your freedom from dirty dish water, your clean, dry hands, the safeguarding of the family health from bacteria so often carried from one member of the family to another on dishes, and most of all enjoy the leisure time for pleasant occupations away from the kitchen.

Hints for Cleansing and Polishing Furniture

Put six tablespoonsful of linseed oil in an egg bowl for cups set into a larger one of hot water. When the oil is warm add, by beating in with a silver fork, 2 tablespoons of a pure white soap jelly. Apply liberally with a small cloth, rubbing well into the wood; use a larger cotton or cheesecloth and rub dry. If the mixture gets thick, set in hot water a moment.

To make the soap jelly: Shave ¼ cake (finger size) of pure white soap in one quart of boiling water. Boil until dissolved and then strain through cheesecloth. This will harden indefinitely. To use liquid, just reheat.

Maple Syrup Cake Rule

Maple Syrup Cake Rule

REMEMBER I told you I had received my first order of maple syrup right from a Vermont farm! I can't begin to tell you how all the delicious things that have come out of that can so far, but I must make room for this maple icing cake and maple icing. You'll want to try it, I'm sure and there's no better time than right now when the maple syrup crop is at its best.

MAPLE SYRUP CAKE—1½ cupful butter or substitute, ½ cup granulated sugar, 2 eggs, beaten light, 1 cupful maple syrup, ½ cupful hot water, 2½ cupful cake flour, 3½ teaspoonful soda, 1 teaspoonful baking powder and ¼ teaspoonful ginger.

Cream butter; gradually add the sugar; add the eggs, beaten with just separating the whites and yolks. Add the maple syrup, then the water alternately with the flour; which has been sifted, measured, and sifted again with the ginger, soda and baking powder added. Bake in a tube loaf pan about 1½ minutes. Cover with Maple Icing, and decorate with halves of English walnuts.

MAPLE ICING—Dissolve 1 cupful maple sugar and 1 tablespoonful white corn syrup in 1½ cupful of boiling water. Let boil until, when tested in cold water, a little of the syrup may be gathered into a soft ball. Pour syrup in a fine strainer on the white of 1 egg beaten very light, beating continuously meanwhile. Beat continuously until cold and stiff enough to spread on cake. If cooked or beaten too long, it will become lumpy or water drops at a time. If not cooked enough, it will set the level of frosting over the fire in a pan of boiling water, and beat continuously until the thickens perceptibly.

Personality in Home

HAS it ever occurred to you that your home like yourself has personality, which like human personality, attracts or repels? You and I are so accustomed to our rooms that we don't often think of their effect on other people. But I'm sure that some of us would be surprised if we could know the thoughts of our visitors when they first step into our homes.

Since five-sixths of the interior of any room is made up of walls or ceilings, it's more than important that we give careful thought to the decorating of these.

The spring style forecast for wall paper now emphatically "Fanciful." Fashion is rapidly turning away from plain walls and favoring the larger designs and figures and brighter colors. Color is stimulating and a gloom banisher, but of course it must be used judiciously to avoid an overdose. The new paneled wall papers give the effect of a plain surface hung with beautiful brocades or damasks.

I've been enjoying a book of the latest wall paper samples including directions for the new style and colorings. It's called the "Nymphaeae" and it's a book of the latest style and colorings. It's called the "Nymphaeae" and it's a book of the latest style and colorings.

There's one at fifteen cents a roll that's an exact copy of the exquisite brocade painted linen. Another is called the "Nymphaeae" and it's a book of the latest style and colorings.

Pepper Pot Recipe
WHILE attending the Sequel Centennial Exposition last summer, I was fortunate enough to make a claim on a recipe for real Philadelphia pepper pot as well as those who have recently added to the list of recipes for this delicious and economical dish.

PHILADELPHIA PEPPER POT—Chop fine, each of green pepper, onion and beef; mix a table-spoonful butter in a saucepan; add the chopped vegetables and stir until the butter is absorbed; add a small can of tomatoes and one-fourth of a cup of water. Boil the rice before adding it to the other ingredients. Add two cups of white stock. Let simmer two hours. Add three ripe tomatoes and let simmer twenty minutes. Skim, season with salt and pepper and serve.

Getting Out of a Rut
IF you're finding yourself in a rut, that is, making the same old cake, work in and work out, know you'll enjoy this plain walnut fudge cake for a change.

RAISIN WALNUT FUDGE CAKE—One-half cupful butter or substitute, 1½ cupful sifted brown sugar, 2 egg-whites, 1 cupful sifted brown sugar, 1 cupful chopped raisins, 4 ounces or four squares chocolate, melted, 1½ cupful hot water, 1½ cupful flour, 1½ cupful soda, 1½ cupful cinnamon, 1½ cupful cloves, 2 egg-whites, 1½ cupful walnuts, 3 table-spoons granulated sugar.

Beat the butter to a cream and gradually work in the first mixture alternately with the water and sour milk, beating well in the egg-whites, beating very light. Turn into a tube loaf cake pan. Press one edge of each half into the top of the cake; mix the sugar, raisins and top of the cake. Bake about 15 minutes.

On Cooking of Pudding

HONEST and truly, cream your heart, do you like cornstarch pudding?

If you don't—and I didn't for many years—I've never eaten one really properly cooked. Most people mix their cornstarch with cold water as directed, pour it into the boiling hot milk and sugar and stir only until it thickens. This leaves the unappetizing flavor of uncooked cornstarch which is enough to prejudice the least choosy pal.

Long, thorough cooking over a simmering water in the double boiler, delicate, delicious, flavorful, nourishing pudding that's fit to grace any table.

My recipe calls for three cups of milk which will produce six generous servings. Have boiling water in the bottom of the double boiler and in the top of the boiler place two and one-half cups of milk.

Cover and bring to a boil, which when they bubble appear around the edge. Meanwhile, mix together two tablespoons of cornstarch, two tablespoons of sugar, one-half cup of cold milk, and one-half cup of cold milk. Stir to mix.

Add the cornstarch mixture to the boiling milk, a little at a time, stirring constantly with a wooden spoon. Cook for twenty-five minutes and stir occasionally. The water in the bottom of the boiler should be boiling constantly all this time.

Meanwhile, beat one egg slightly with a fork. Add a few drops of water. After the simmering mixture has cooked twenty-five minutes, add the beaten egg mixture, cover the top of the stove and pour the eggs to the hot mixture. This will cook the eggs in the mixture.

When the milk mixture and the egg mixture are combined, pour the pudding back into the double boiler and let it simmer for five minutes longer. Individual molds with cold water, let stand a minute or two, then pour out. Add one-half teaspoon of vanilla to the pudding, beat well and pour into the molds. The chocolate can be added as desired.

THERE'S one little thing that I wish you would do for me because you'll be doing yourself a favor, and that is, to use a sufficient amount of 10¢ in a package of a new fresh fruit gelatine powder. Take it, break open the wrapper and sniff, sniff!

You'll recognize with the first whiff how different this gelatine is from any you have ever used before. It has the heavy aroma of sun-ripened, fresh fruits themselves.

Pour a little of it into your hand, feel the rich heaviness of the delicate fruit flavored crystals. Empty the package into a bowl and pour on the boiling water. Now just mix the fragrance like ripe fruit warm with sunshine and dream with dew.

Test these new gelatinates carefully, roll them on your tongue. You'll find no strange flavor, no "manufactured" taste at all, no gluey smother or gumminess. The pure gelatine that carries these fresh fruit flavors does not change their delicacy in any way for no synthetic or artificial flavoring are used.

I think raspberry is my first choice with its ripe luscious flavor of the fresh berry. Then there's the strawberry, gleamingly perfect, with its flavor straight from the juices of the luscious fruit.

Smell the cherry ripe fragrance that rises when you melt the crystals of the cherry variety. You'll almost see the cherries dancing under the leaves, playing hide and seek with the sunshine. Then there's the orange flavor, with its golden beauty and the pure, clear translucent beauty with the delicious flavor and fragrance of the fruit.

Famous food specialists everywhere recommend gelatine as you know, especially for desserts. And to me it's a blessed thought. And in spite of the fact that it's sweet tooth, these gelatinates are not fattening at all. Perhaps you'd like me to send you a most attractive recipe book containing not only recipes for fresh fruit gelatinates but also the various flavors, but helpful entertainment suggestions as well.

Maple Syrup Frosting Is Easy to Make

Cook one cup and three-quarters of maple syrup to 215° F. or 3½ minutes. Turn into a bowl and let it cool. Beat the white of one egg, beaten dry, beating constantly meanwhile. Incorporate with whole buttermilk milk.

WELL have to admit that silk underwear is the best-looking weakness of fair femininity, and that there's anything more maddening after the bloom is off the peach, than to see its beauty float away on a sea of soap suds.

Remember, war back when the pretties first found their way into the wardrobe of the "working girl," how we used to try to coax back some of their pristine loveliness with weird soaps of brilliant hue?

I've shed salt tears over the purple pink aging and magenta maddening that resulted from my efforts, for the cotton and linen lace trimmings of the silks always took an even deeper shade than the too deep silk.

Now, praise be, we have a new tinting powder, in exquisite shades, easy to use as bluing, that will tint silk, but leave the lace its original color.

And most valuable of all, to my mind, is a special bluing for silk underwear that restores the original whiteness to fabrics that have been cream colored from laundering.

Think of the army of white stockings that can be salvaged from last Summer, to say nothing of white silk slips, blouses and glove knits—upside that heretofore have stayed snowy white with a short time.

I've tended out white stockings for many moons drying them in the dark when they bubble appear around the edge. Meanwhile, mix together two tablespoons of cornstarch, two tablespoons of sugar, one-half cup of cold milk, and one-half cup of cold milk. Stir to mix.

Add the cornstarch mixture to the boiling milk, a little at a time, stirring constantly with a wooden spoon. Cook for twenty-five minutes and stir occasionally. The water in the bottom of the boiler should be boiling constantly all this time.

Individual molds with cold water, let stand a minute or two, then pour out. Add one-half teaspoon of vanilla to the pudding, beat well and pour into the molds. The chocolate can be added as desired.

Upside Down Cake Rule
MELT one and one-half table-spoons of butter in a heavy color aluminum or iron frying pan. Then add enough brown sugar to well cover the bottom of the spider and set at the back of the stove over a low heat to partially melt the sugar. Drain the juice one cup of peach halves.

Place the fruit with the hollow side down in the spider. It should take about ten minutes to cook. Fill the space between with broken walnut meats and raisins and perhaps a few maraschino cherries or bits of pineapple.

The cake part, cream together two table-spoons of butter and three-fourths of a cup of sugar. Beat in one unbeaten egg and then another. When the mixture is light and fluffy add alternately two cups of flour sifted with two table-spoons of salt and two-thirds of a cup of milk. Least of all, flavor to taste with vanilla or lemon, beat thoroughly and pour over the mixture in the spider.

Bake in a hot oven, 275 degrees, for twenty minutes. Remove and turn the spider upside down on a serving plate. Serve at once with or without whipped cream.

Remove Stains From Mahogany Furniture
Stains and spots can be removed from mahogany furniture by the use of a little oxalic acid and water, or a soft muslin cloth or chamois.

Sunshine Soda Crackers

...it wears a third moisture-proof coat!

The final step has been taken to insure oven-crispness of Sunshine Soda Biscuits from our ovens to your table.

Around the outside of the whole package is a new moisture-proof jacket. There are also two sturdy guards against moisture inside—the wax paper around the biscuits, and the waxed cardboard carton.

This triple protection defends the fine taste, developed by the Full Grain Process, against all comers, dust as well as dampness.

No wonder they crackle with crispness as you eat them.

Washday . . .
is almost a joy to Miss Moore now
. . . the drudgery is gone!

Mum Moore knows both the old-fashioned hard way and the easy Chipso way—there's no doubt about her choice!

"I AM seventy-six years old," says Mrs. Higgins, "and had been doing washing up until about three years ago in the old way of rubbing, boiling and rinsing—but I started using Chipco and found it a labor saving soap.

"This is the method I use now: I soak the clothes in good Chipco suds over night. Then, the first thing in the morning, I change the suds and rub the clothes with the hands (no board), rinse them in two waters and hang them to dry. Chipco has the power to wash as well as remove the dirt. I also find it safe for woollens, flannel and silk.

"On Monday morning my clothes are on the line at least an hour and a half before the neighbors'!

"Chipco used in washing dishes does not give your hands that dishpan look, or cause them to chafe as other soaps and powders do.

"It is very good for cleansing the pots, pans, enamelled bathtubs and bowls. Before starting to use Chipco I had to use a scouring powder in the bathroom. But now those days are gone for me as long as Chipco is on the market."

A FEW years ago I began using Chipso to wash clothes," says Miss Leona Moore who lives in Bridgton, Maine. "That seems very natural to you, no doubt, but to me Chipso has been—and still is—a blessing.

"No doubt I would still be using some kind of soap that costs more and is worth less if a neighbor of mine had not happened in one day to find a kitchen full of steam and dirt clothing all over the room. After looking around she found me behind a tub trying to wash soap in Chipso I had lost.

"She told me of a wonderful new soap called Chipso which she used for all occasions. And she loaned me some just to give it a trial.

"Now it is a joy to know washday is near, and that little or no scrubbing is necessary. It cleans every garment, does not fade colored clothes and does not injure the hands.

"Chipso is a great help in dishwashing. It removes grease from cooking utensils. It gives glass and silver a luster as no soap has yet done. Merely dissolve a teaspoon of Chipso in a pan of warm water and soak dishes a minute. Presto, they are as clean and sparkling as new."

The Prize Review of Current Affairs enters its second week today. While the judges are preparing their decision of the winners, the first week of the "review," which will be announced on Monday, will be the first week of the American, all appearing in the paper during the week of 10-12 considered for the award of the next regular week.

This unique competition, conducted by the Boston Evening American, and sponsored by the American Association of Advertisers, is designed to create a livelier interest in advertising as a business of the elements of advertising and other factors that make it a more effective and profitable and successful than another.

National and local advertisers, teachers and students of merchandising, advertising and public relations have expressed their hearty approval of the plan and are availing great interest in the outcome of the removal competition—the first of its kind to be initiated by any newspaper.

As I understand the plan of the Boston Evening American for the Prize Review of Current Advertising, the contest should be of immense benefit to Boston and New England. It will not only bring out the best efforts toward better advertising and sales effort, but it is bound to stimulate business.

Now England has always been recognized as the manufacturing centre of the country and as such has paid strict attention to the quality of her products and de-

A factor which adds considerable interest to the competition is the provision that all "ads," whether half an inch or full page size are eligible to win the prize—a receipt bill for the cost of the insertion. This broadens the scope of the competition to avail herself of the profits on her efforts that have for years been accorded to the commercial centres of the country should be welcomed from a logical point of view."

A proposal that in the event of the "El" being returned to private ownership, the road shall deed over to the State all, or a portion, of its overhead structures, equal in value to the appreciation of the road while under public operation, was made today by Democratic Senator Arthur E.

An order to bring this about was today filed by Blanchard with the clerk of the House. The appreciation is estimated at $200,000,000.

The order calls for a report by the Utilities Department before April 15.

Commenting on his order, Blanchard said:

A Startling Serial Story of Love, Terror and the Night Clubs

The Boston Evening American begins publication today of a stirring new serial of love, terror and the night clubs.

CHAPTER I.
THE pianist, a scrawny, pasty-faced little fellow, was noticeably hard-boiled when he began playing for Jacqueline.

By the time she had finished he had thawed considerably. "Pretty good," he admitted. "Stick around till 11 o'clock and I'll have the boss hear you."

Most of the tables were covered up with up-turned chairs and the whole atmosphere was coldly disparaged with the lingering aroma of the previous night's revelry. Except for the single light over the piano, the Sea Shell was dim.

Whatever charm, however, that belonged to this cabaret was lost upon Jacqueline Kay at the stark hour of 10 in the morning, and her immediate necessities of life, depending upon the verdict of some unknown "boss," who would arrive at 11. Boston still terrorized her a little, and this place set up a hard little note of uncertainty in her breast.

Nevertheless, the piano player had been rather more pleasant to her than he had to the ten or twelve other girls who had appeared that morning for a tryout. All of them were singers, but Jacqueline's candid ear told her honestly that hers was the best voice there, the best trained.

One other girl, petite and brunette, had a throaty voice, almost like a man's. Jacqueline was immensely surprised that she, too, was told to wait for the boss. The girl came over and joined her at a table close to the wall where she was waiting.

"Well, it looks like you and me are elected," the stranger remarked, in a pleasant voice, strangely unlike her masculine singing tones. "The others were pretty rotten—didn't you think?"

"I don't know—it's hardly a fair trial, singing like this," Jacqueline said. "Do you know anything about this place?"

"Only that there's fifty a week in the job, if you get it. You worked in any of these places before?"

"I have only been in Boston three weeks," Jacqueline said. "I had hoped to get on with musical comedy or something like that."

WIFE STILL LOVES HART

Faces Trial in Gas Deaths

'COME HOME,' BILL HART!

2 CHILDREN VICTIMS OF FUMES

South Boston Man Accused of Installing Defective Heat-er In Their Home

Alfred W. Willis, a South Boston man, went on trial in Suffolk Superior Court today on a charge of manslaughter, growing out of the death of two children who were asphyxiated by gas in their home a year ago.

The case is unusual and is attracting considerable attention from the legal world.

Willis, without a license installed a gas heater in the home of James J. Hart at No. 8 P street, South Boston. The government claims that the heater was defective, in that it did not permit enough gas to enter the chamber of the heater.

Thereupon, it is claimed, Willis removed a safety device which controlled the flow of gas, increasing it to a flow of 25 cubic feet of gas a minute to 95 cubic feet a minute to 95 cubic feet a minute.

The cause of the gas, the government contends, was too great for the children's lungs and the free gas escaping into the chamber killed the two children, James J. and Gerald Hart.

Radio Music to Be Used to Rebuild Girl's Mind

Chicago, Ill., April 4.—Physician at the Bryn Mawr Hospital, where little nine-year-old Marie Kulaga lies awoke with the mind of a month-old baby, will today resort to radio music in an effort to rebuild her memory.

Asleep for five weeks, Marie awoke last Friday with the mind of an infant. Of the objects she was asked to name Marie could only recognize a doll. Doctors pronounced her as a victim of sleeping sickness. The radio will be used in an effort to bring her mind back to normal.

Doctors who will conduct the experiment believe the constant lack of music will slowly stir the memory. At intervals during the day, the volume of the music will be increased. Music that she has heard at home will be used.

This form of treatment was decided upon when the child's lack of interest in a time he was whistled. When asked to name a thing the child struggled to remember.

Marie Kulaga, nine years old, was found unconscious in a room at the Bryn Mawr Hospital, where she has been lying for five weeks.

Macbeth My Lady Plots Shakespeare's Tragedy of Ambition

"With his former title great Macbeth. What he hath done, noble Macbeth hath won." Duncan, King of Scotland, hearing of Macbeth's bravery in winning the battle against the King of Norway and the traitor Thane of Cawdor, ordered Cawdor's estates confiscated and given to Macbeth.

"Often times, to win us to our harm, The instruments of darkness tell us truths, The victor's generals, Macbeth and Banquo, returning from battle, stumble into the witches' cave. The witches hailed Macbeth 'Thane of Cawdor' and 'King hereafter.' Banquo they called Father of Kings.

"Strange things I have in head, that will to hand, Which may be acted ere they can be sound." The King's men greeted Macbeth with his new title, 'Thane of Cawdor.' Both Macbeth and Banquo marvelled at the witches' prophecy coming true, and Macbeth began to hope that he would be made king.

"How thee better, That I may pour my spirits to thine ear." Lady Macbeth received a letter from her husband telling of his new title and the witches' prophecy that he should be king. She determined to spur him on to any deed of violence to acquire the throne.

STAGE SCREEN MUSIC

DIVORCE FIVE HOUSES

By LEO GAFFNEY
When the movie takes to preaching moral lessons that are actually received by audiences, there are other considerations than art for the writer to note when applying the measure of appraisal.

You feel that way about "Children of Divorce" which is now showing at the Olympia, Fenway, Scollay, Capitol and other picture houses. The film is as down at the heels as the divorce law and devote its footage to the consequences of these youngsters who grow up with "no mother to guide them."

Similar moral admonitions in the silent drama generally turn out water but, both as to art and to amusement. An exception was "Over the Hill" which was a good movie.

BRIEF PERFORMANCE.
With "Children of Divorce" the theme is different. It is an entirely better made film than "Over the Hill" but is sentimental and far more sophisticated, but it seems less lively to the eye than the distressed "children" when one of them, Esther Ralston, is seen in the picture.

It is a film of the "dilemma" adapted from Owen's novel, showing the effects of unrequited love and the resulting and badly scarred marriage by the picture. "Over the Hill" is a film which is a study in the life of a woman who is a victim of a man's passion, and who is a victim of a man's passion.

ALERT DIRECTION.
Frank Lloyd, who made "The Sea Hawk," is responsible for the direction and, considering the difficulties of this task, has wrought exceedingly well. In the earlier sequences, he utilizes the camera players who give performance fully as interesting as the picture. In other moments, when he has capable hands the story would look down with a more artistic touch. Lloyd and his actors have valiantly in the picture with his tricks and his director at good taste.

Gary Cooper, temporarily relieved from "Westerns," plays his masculine lead in a role that is refreshingly different from the regular Hollywood hero. He appears in a secondary role that gives him a little picture of rare purpose and sincerity.

FASHION FOR WOMEN

"Fashions for Women," the new film at the Metropolitan, is the best that it has seen of rooms devoted to the fashion world. The film is a study in the life of a woman who is a victim of a man's passion, and who is a victim of a man's passion.

The feature was directed by Dorothy Arner and it is her first achievement in this line. The background of the narrative is Paris and it is a true picture of the French metropolis as seen from the inside.

Bebe Daniels Will Film Catalina Swim Story

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS, Universal Service Motion Picture Editor.
LOS ANGELES, April 4.—"Swim, Girl, Swim." Isn't that a title that would make you drop into your favorite motion picture theatre. Bebe Daniels thinks well enough of it to use it for her next picture, an original written for her by Lloyd Corrigan, with the famous Catalina Channel swim as a background. Clarence Badger will be the picture director.

Bebe has demonstrated to her own satisfaction, and as what is probably even more important to Famous Players-Lasker, how popular athletic stories are with the movie patrons. Her "Cinderella" has been one of Famous' most successful pictures up to date.

But the public hasn't seen anything until "Swim, Girl, Swim" is released. It is one of the best comedies any star, male or female, has ever made. For a conservative columnist, this is a story in language, but this is a story that warrants it. She plays a feminine Douglas Fairbanks, and she does some stunts that are not unlike the spectacular adventures of Mr. Fairbanks. "The Mark of Zorro."

Since separating with her two pictures "Carry at the End" and "The Big Sneeze," while Hatten has appeared opposite Esther Ralston in "Fashions for Women."

Connie Mack's Young Men Are Making Their Spring Drive on Umps

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

By TAD JIMMY WELSH GOES UNDER KNIFE TODAY

Norfolk, Va., April 3.—Jimmy Welsh, Braves right fielder, will have his tonsils removed in a private New York hospital today, Dr. Warner, who operated successfully on Manager Bancroft for the same trouble two years ago, will handle the case. Welsh recovery is abnormally slow, Jimmy will be among those on hand for the season's opening a week from tomorrow.

Welsh was sent to New York from Raleigh, N. C., Saturday night. He had been playing great ball all Spring, but was underweight and couldn't pack any. He was worried, and he was advised to get the tonsils out at the time, but he put the trouble off.

Welsh had been thin and alling a year ago, and was sent to a sanatorium. He was advised that his tonsils were not as good as they might be. He was advised to have them out at the time, but he put the trouble off.

GREAT IN FLAMES.
The Spring he looked constantly the great ball player that he appeared to be in flames during the last two seasons. Manager Bancroft was afraid that his lack of weight might help to pull him down, and the strain of the National League race home to be felt. Bancroft thinks Welsh will be a real star this season, and wants him husky.

So Welsh talked things over with the player, got in touch with the doctor by telephone, and today's operation is the result. Jimmy expects to step out of the hospital Thursday morning, meet the team as it comes up from the South, and proceed along to Boston with it.

The Braves, on route home for the Spring, on the morning, stopped at the hotel of the Piedmont League this afternoon, and stacked up against the Jersey City team tomorrow. Then they play a contest at Richmond Wednesday, and proceed to their home town.

SMITH TO PITCH PENER.
Walter Smith, who will be on the regular pitching staff, were picked to work the two games here. Both are in shape, though neither has gone the full distance yet.

Manager Bancroft said today that he expected to open the real season with Bobby Smith, infielder, who had been in the lineup since the game Smith pitched against the Athletics in Savannah, proved that Bobby has finally reached pitching greatness.

MARYLAND RACE CARD GLASSY

While the opening at Bowie could not be called its most auspicious one, the race and poor racing conditions affecting the show, still a large crowd was present when the barrier was sprung for the first event of the Eastern race season. The race was decided by a close finish, and the horses all apparently in top summer racing condition. If appearances mean anything, Maryland's spring season should be the best yet.

Harve de Grace, who will start following the Bowie meeting, will distribute $10,000 for the 15 days of the race card. The failure of the race card to do more than seven in thirteen in the past was a great disappointment to the Maryland racing community. Fred Wingo and Tommy McFadden took away some of the race.

Higher Education is Turning to the Ring

By Jack Conway
If our college boys keep turning to boxing the way they have during the past few years, the boards of trustees at Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Boston College and Dartmouth may decide to give honorary degrees to carafee punching men like Gene Tunney, Jack Dempsey, Jack Sharkey and Shamus Maloney," stated Mr. Boston today.

There are so many rah-rah youths going in for fame and glory in the ring that Harry Kelly and Jim Toland are seriously thinking of making a college diploma a requirement for admission to their gymnasiums.

"I am sure that any boy who permits a flock of ordinary members of the Cauliflower Union to chatter up their awesomeness there are young hunkies with college prep grades who are not getting a chance to exercise their muscles."

"I was at 'the good old times of South Boston' when I got out of the graduation exercises at Harvard if President Lowell should step to the center of the platform and announced that Harvard had conferred the degree of Master of Harvard on their Bhamus.

"I am sure that any boy who permits a flock of ordinary members of the Cauliflower Union to chatter up their awesomeness there are young hunkies with college prep grades who are not getting a chance to exercise their muscles."

"I was at 'the good old times of South Boston' when I got out of the graduation exercises at Harvard if President Lowell should step to the center of the platform and announced that Harvard had conferred the degree of Master of Harvard on their Bhamus.

"DONAHUE presented the best subject for an interview. Jack has been talking back to football officials for so long that he didn't give an inch of ground when we approached him.

"Why do you want to become a fighter?" I queried.

"Donahue laughed outright.

"How silly of you, old top," he replied.

"But why?" I pressed.

"I know a lot of fellows with college educations who are drumming along at $10 to $15 a week," said Jack. "And then there are other fellows who can knock off $15,000 to $20,000 for a single night's work."

"They get the big dough because they are big and strong and can fight. I jumped myself in the mirror and discovered that I was bigger than any of the so-called leading heavyweights. And maybe I'm just as strong."

"I thought I would try and see if a college education would help me to use my strength properly," so that I, too, could knock off $15,000 or so a night. It must be quite a sensation to pick up that much money for one evening's work. I know I never could get that much teaching mathematics, Latin or Greek."

"ASKED Donahue if he thought he had enough courage to enter a ring with Tunney.

"Sure thing," he snapped back. "I played football for Boston College for three years, while I was with the Steam Rollers last fall. I remember in one Boston College game that I had two teeth knocked out. I didn't want the fellow playing opposite me to know he had 'battered' my teeth and so I swallowed 'em. Do you think that required courage?"

"I want to tell you, though, that training for football is a close compared to getting fit for boxing. When I first started working, I ached all over. I'm now getting used to the gym work. I will never say a boxer doesn't earn his money after going through what I have during the past month."

MEDBURY SAYS

A COORDING to the magazine advertisement, people all over the country are flocking to these muscle building schools. One man says he took the course so that he could talk back to his wife.

He got his diploma today and he's going to start an argument with her tomorrow.

He says he feels so good he has to wear handkerchiefs to keep from hitting himself on the nose.

His chest expansion has grown so much that he can fill three towels.

Not only that, but he can pop the buttons off his shirt quicker than a laundry.

These muscles in his neck are so strong that it would take any state three days to hang him.

He spends his evenings riding around in taxicabs looking for arguments.

If the drivers won't believe him strong, he shows them a letter from the school.

HE'S gone over the worst kind of roads in the patrol wagon and never minded the trip.

This case caught him the other day with three manholes over his head.

He said he was going to take them home and play them on the phonograph.

He's very superstitious. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals had to get after him for throwing horses over his left shoulder.

THE park commissioners found him in the zoo the other day with the hippopotamus on his lap.

THEY told him that if it was all the same to him they'd rather he'd play with the elephants.

ALWAYS DEAD TIRED?

How sad! Sallow complexion, coated tongue, poor appetite, bad breath, pimply skin and always tired. What's wrong? You are poisoned. The bowels are clogged and liver inactive. Take this famous prescription used constantly in place of a cathartic by men and women for 25 years—Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They are harmless yet effective. A compound of vegetable ingredients and olive oil. They act easily upon the bowels, free the system of poison caused by faulty elimination and tone up liver. So beautiful. Have ray checks, clear eyes and youthful vigor that make a success of life. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Mother, know them by their size color, 150, 300 and 600.

SINCE he took this muscle building course he can't keep his hands off anything. He's so tough that even his shadow's afraid to follow him.

HE got in an accident last week and it took him an hour and a half to break his arm.

HE went to a beauty paragon the other day and the doctor had to put an automobile jack under his chin to lift his face.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND.
O! the bottom of a pocket is a bridegroom who stops at the corner drug store for a sustaining glass of malted milk on his way home to dinner.
At twenty, a man meets a widow and realizes that he has graduated in the School of Experience; at forty he meets a lawyer and wonders he ever got out of the kindergarten.
Getting used to a husband is like getting used to a horse—neither a matter of understanding the double nature, and watching your step.
Falling in love with a married man is losing your heart and setting out on a second mortgage.
When it comes to money, clothes, and love, a woman never knows when she's got enough—because, alas, she never reads!
It isn't the big black lie a man tells that deceives a woman, but all the little white, pink and lavender ones that are so hard to distinguish from the rest of his line.
All this talk about the "romance of Big Business" is the bomb! Business is just getting as much as you can get for as little as you can. And what is there romantic, thrilling or beautiful about THAT?
Every man admits that he can get a lot of fun out of marriage—if he can only manage to stay out of it! Copyright, 1927, King Features Synd., Inc.

ON JOB FOR 50 YEARS

Thomas McKnight, left, who is in the advertising game when "Pink Pile for Pale People" was the snappiest sort of an advertising slogan, has been five decades with N. W. Ayer and Son, of Philadelphia, oldest advertising agency in the country. He is being congratulated by Wilfred W. Fry, senior partner of the firm.

New England Calls All to Its Summer Playground

Come to New England!

Let That Be the Message Inviting Visitors From Far and Near for This Summer

The Berkshires, Cape Cod, the Connecticut shore resorts, Mount Desert and the Vinalyard, Plymouth, Cape Ann, the great State of Maine, the Winnepesaukee region, Sunapee, the White Mountains, the Green Mountains, Champlain, these and a score more of Summer communities are about to engage anew in the lucrative pastime of "selling" the Playground of America to the people of America.

They've got something to sell, every one of them!

Each of the Six States which form New England is a NATURAL Summer vacation resort, and the time has come to tell the world about it. Other sections of the U. S. A. may and do boast one or two good things each, in the way of Summer attractions, but New England has them all.

Boating, fishing, swimming, tennis, golf, baseball, motor-ing, horseback-riding, camping, music, the drama, social life, the Summer visitor to New England has only to help himself.

He may bask upon the sands of the seashore, or he may pitch his tent upon the mountain-top. He may write his name upon the register of a mountain hotel as palatial as any to be found in the world's largest city, or he may be treated as "just folks" in any one of 300,000 farmhouses. The fact is that whatever may be said of other regions there is none that actually COMPELS with New England in this business of the Summer vacationist.

How to care for the Summer visitor, how to multiply his numbers, how to make him feel at home, and most of all how to send him away firmly resolved to return again, was the subject of discussion last week at a Hotel Statler conference called by the Committee on Recreational Resources of the New England Council.

Hotel men, automobile men, amusement managers, farmers, chamber of commerce officials and advertising men came to Boston, at the invitation of Chairman Hiram W. Zicker, to "talk it over."

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad was represented by its passenger traffic manager; the Boston & Maine Railroad, by its publicity manager; the Maine Central, by its general passenger agent.

Millions upon millions of dollars are brought into New England every year by visitors to our sea, lakes and mountains. Most of this money stays here. It goes to not only the hotelkeeper, but to hotel employees, to builders, contractors, shopkeepers, local tradesmen, neighborhood farmers, fishermen, guides, and THEIR help. Railroad and steamboat companies, trolley lines, buses, all get their share.

As a matter of fact, the one reasonable criticism that may be made of the Committee on Recreational Resources of the New England Council is that it is not big enough. Here and now, the Boston Evening American moves that the Committee be increased from six to 7,400,000 members!

New England is the Summer playground of America because of its climate, its scenery and its historical associations. Nowhere else is there such an abundance of mountain, sea, shore, lake country, farmland and wilderness.

Our visitors may come to visit Plymouth Rock, Concord and Lexington; Marshfield, the birthplace of the American Navy; the Grade of Liberty; Bunker's Hill, where was decided the liberty of the American Colonies.

They go to old Salem, to be thrilled not only by memories of the "witchcraft delusion" and of Hawthorne, but of those early days in the last century when this was one of the trade centres of the world.

For the motorist, New England is today a veritable network of entrancing drives. Days may be spent in motor excursions, and yet on each trip the visitor finds new scenes of beauty, fresh points of interest.

This New England of ours is the camper's paradise, too. It seems almost impossible that in these modern days one may

FIRE MAKES MEN
INDEPENDENT

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE most important invention of the human race was the discovery of fire.

Nobody knows who made the first fire. The Greeks had an interesting tradition that it was stolen from the gods by Prometheus and given to man. Some think that it is of volcanic origin.

Whatever its origin it has enabled man to be independent of place.

By means of it he can inhabit wintry zones and he can also use it, as in steam boilers and otherwise, as a most important tool to increase the productivity of his hands.

At any rate fires are very old in the history of the human race and go back to such time as "the memory of man runneth not to the contrary."

Some recent writer called attention to the fact that the amusements and comforts of today are based upon the necessary actions of yesterday.

That is, little girls play with dolls because for ages their mothers had been nursing babies. Baseball is a great sport because our ancestors used to wield tree limbs, run, and throw missiles, throwing, running and batting being the elements of the game.

The earliest communal center, that is the focus about which any group gathered, was a fire.

The community fire of the Indians about which they held their pow-wows has its place deep in the instincts of the race. It is for this reason that the steam radiator or hot-air furnace can never take the place of the open fire.

There is a pleasure about sitting around the glowing coals or burning wood which appeals to our strongest instincts. In such manner our ancestors gathered around the central fire. Even in coming days, when all residences may be heated by electricity and kept at Summer temperature during Winter, the open fire will have its place. It not only has a practical use, but it appeals very strongly to sentiment.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU are always praying.

"No, you're mistaken," you cry. "I don't pray. I'm not a religious person. I don't belong to any church."

Churches have nothing to do with this, my friend.

You don't have to believe in a creed in order to pray.

Prayer is as involuntary as breathing. Everyone prays. Every time you long for something, you pray. Every time you dream of a more desirable existence, you pray. Every time your imagination is stirred by some new appeal, you pray.

And every time you pray, you change.

Prayer is the greatest force in human life.

Prayer may be good or bad, conscious or unconscious, but it is always tremendously powerful. It is more powerful than food, or fire or dynamite. Nothing on earth is more powerful than prayer.

So every wish that passes through your life changes you. An old book says: "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." All the time you are shaping your life in the secret places of your own heart.

Prayer is a small, selfish performance, glimmer and glimmer of life, like a dim and dingy as a narrow cell.

Noble Prayers

If your prayers are noble and generous, life for you will have wide horizons and shining glimpses of glory.

Your life will be just as big as your prayer. Most of our prayers aren't very big.

Recently three wise, good men were talking about prayer. One was a Jewish rabbi, one a Catholic priest and one a Protestant minister. They spoke with sorrow of the narrowness and selfishness of even those who professed the greatest righteousness. And then, together they made their prayer for all men. ALMIGHTY GOD: We who are members of different races, and faiths desire together Thy Fatherhood and our kinship with each other. In our differences we find that many of our hopes, our fears, our aspirations are one. Thou art our Father and we Thy children.

"We are heartily sorry for the mistakes of our fathers, our fathers and greed which have blinded our eyes and thrust us asunder. May the light that comes from Thy Father's house, cleanse our hearts and give health to our spirits, teach us to put away all bitterness and walk together in the ways of human friendship."

Open Our Eyes

OPEN OUR EYES TO SEE THAT AS NATURE ABOUNDS IN VARIATION, SO DIFFERENCES IN HUMAN BEINGS MAKE RICHNESS IN THE COMMON WORLD. IN MANY WE OBSERVE WHERE HONOR IS DUE, REGARDLESS OF RACE, COLOR OR CIRCUMSTANCE. DEEPEN OUR FEELING FOR UNLIKENESS AND OUR EAGERNESS TO UNDERSTAND ONE ANOTHER. THROUGH THE DEEPER CONSIDERATION OF THE DIFFERENCES, MAY WE GLADLY SHARE WITH EACH OTHER OUR BEST GIFTS AND TOGETHER SEEK FOR A HUMAN WORLD FAIRER AND BETTER.

Do you ever make a prayer like that?

Do you "respect unlikeness" — are YOU "sage" to understand "other's"? Or do you merely pay that others may respect and understand you, serve you, make you happy and rich and well?

How big is your prayer?

Come to New England!

find a place where all the joys of "big woods camping" may be experienced, without its inconveniences, but New England is rich in such opportunities. Some of them may be found within a few minutes of modern, up-to-date communities, but if one prefers to roam afar, his automobile will carry him to a shady nook or a wave-washed shore that will delight his heart.

There is health in these hills and on these shores, health and recreation, mental and physical recuperation, vacation satisfaction.

Without the figures at hand, one is unable to give with exactness the number of lakes in the State of Maine, but it is MORE than 5,000!

One of them, Moosehead, is the largest body of fresh water entirely within the boundaries of the United States. The next largest is Lake Winnepesaukee, in the neighboring State of New Hampshire.

In Lafayette National Park, on Mt. Desert Island, Maine possesses the only national park east of the Mississippi.

New Hampshire does not begin to be as big as Maine, and yet consider what the modest Granite State has to offer the vacationist in (1) her shore resorts, (2) her wondrously lovely lakes and (3) her White Mountains!

The New Hampshire coast is a strip of not more than 18 miles—Maine, by comparison, has a direct coastal line of 220 miles and a tidal water line of 2,400—and yet there is crowded into this tiny slice of the Granite State such attractive tourist centres as Hampton, Rye, New Castle, the romantic Isles of Shoals and historic Old Portsmouth. If New England is the playground of the Nation, Lake Winnepesaukee, at the foot of the White Mountains, claims the title of "playground of New England."

The White Mountains, at once the most exclusive and most democratic of our outdoor possessions, extend from the Androscoggin River on the north to the Sandwich Range on the south, a distance of thirty miles, and from Maine to the Connecticut River, a distance of forty-five miles. Mt. Washington (6,283 ft.) is the highest peak east of the Rockies and north of the Carolinas.

What has Vermont to offer?

The Green Mountains, Lake Champlain, smaller lakes almost without number, a hill country wherein no township lacks some elevation and most of the towns possess a wealth of hills and mountains.

Bennington, where Stark defeated the British in '77; Manchester, in the shadow of Mount Equinox, with one of the finest golf courses in America; beautiful Brandon, birthplace of Stephen A. Douglas; Middlebury, home of Middlebury College; and Vergennes, where Macdonough built the ships that won the victory at Plattsburgh in 1812, are Vermont Summer towns that must be mentioned, at least. There is also that little town in Windsor County where Calvin Coolidge was born, and where he took the oath of office.

Connecticut, too, has a long list of delightful shore resorts, reaching from the Rhode Island boundary clear down to the New York line and including New London, with its magnificent nearby beaches. Pomfret, fifty miles this side of Hartford, famous for its memories of Israel Putnam, is an unusually attractive vacation centre, more of which are to be found in the valley of the Housatonic.

Well, we are all members of the committee, duly appointed, properly sworn and fully authorized to let the world know what we've got up here, and what we want to share with our friends from Everywhere.

Tell the folks, when you write to New York, and Pennsylvania, and Michigan, and points West and South. Cut out and send this editorial.

Tell the message be brief, but send it to all who are looking for an ideal place of rest, whether in the mountains, at the seashore, in the woods or on a farm:
